

Self-Portrait Activity

Are you sassy and out there or do you like to hang in the background? Draw or describe yourself from head to toe. Your fashion, hair/ eye color, portrait and fill it in with words or pictures you feel describe you.

There is no wrong way to complete this activity, other than the finished project will need to fit inside of your portfolio. Below you will find a list of suggested formats, however you may change any format or use a combination of formats, to reflect your own creative style and thinking!

- Using your advisor's classroom projector, have a friend help you to draw your profile onto a sheet of paper and then fill in your profile with words, pictures, or symbols that will best describe who you are.
- Complete a full-body drawing of yourself from head to toe, completely illustrated with images of your unique style of clothing, footwear, and accessories! Words can be used to label your drawing, indicating anything from a description of an article of clothing (ie: Chuck Taylor's), to words that would describe your personality (outgoing, fun, athletic, etc.,)
- Use a mixture of art mediums to complete this assignment:

Paint, pencil/pen sketch, magazine collage, construction paper, words created by word-processing or cut from a newspaper or magazine.
