

Advisor Profile

Design an interview with at least 5 questions. Maybe you'd find it more fun to get a partner or two or even work with everyone in your House to create these questions! After you've finalized the list of questions, interview your advisor and write down their responses or at least their main ideas. Then write a narrative, as if you were introducing your advisor to a fifth grader who will have her or him next year, explaining who your advisor is. Consider including an illustration of her or him. Somewhere on this explanation, make sure to mention that it is your "advisor profile."